

IMPRS

for Astronomy & Astrophysics | Bonn and Cologne

INTERNATIONAL MAX PLANCK RESEARCH SCHOOL

Max Planck Institute for Radio Astronomy
University of Bonn
University of Cologne

PHD APPOINTMENTS

The International Max Planck Research School (IMPRS) for Astronomy & Astrophysics is a joint doctoral program between the Max Planck Institute for Radioastronomy (MPIfR) and the Universities of Bonn and Cologne.

- You have talent and ambition for an outstanding research career?
- You have a background in Astrophysics?
- You are about to finish a master's (or equivalent) thesis and want to obtain a PhD at one of the most vibrant Astronomy centers in Europe?

Then visit <http://imprs.mpifr.de> and submit your application before November 1st!

Program Details:

- 3 year appointments
- Gross remuneration starting at ~34000€/a + attractive benefits; no tuition fees
- A network of 80 PhD students from 26 countries
- Mentorship from world class faculty at MPIfR, U of Bonn and U of Cologne
- Career enhancement workshops, advanced lecture courses
- Research on hot topics in observational and theoretical astrophysics
- Access to world leading observing facilities at a variety of wavelengths
- Funding for travel and research
- School language is English